The purchase and sale of residential real estate is a common practice area for many law firms. How does our firm distinguish its residential practice from others? By providing attentive, skilled counsel during one of life's most significant events. For the first-time homebuyer or seller, our goal is to simplify, demystify and de-stress the process. For the seasoned buyer or seller, our experience will be evident by our ability to efficiently bring the transaction through negotiation to closing, anticipating and protecting against all of the issues that commonly present themselves throughout the life of a transaction.

Our attorneys also provide a variety of services to clients in this area other than purchases and sales of homes. We handle matters involving the specialized area of condominiums and co-ops as well as vacant land sales and purchases, residential lease agreements, property tax appeals, litigation concerning real property & title issues, and representation before various municipal boards.
