Any good estate plan will include a variety of documents to ensure that your assets are protected during your lifetime and are passed on to your family, loved ones, and friends according to your wishes. They will also outline your wishes for medical treatment should you become incapacitated, as well as giving someone of your choosing the power to make financial and business decisions on your behalf should you become unable to act for yourself.

Our attorneys will listen to your goals, analyze your assets and holdings, and explain your options to you so you can make informed decisions. Some of the options our attorneys will consider and design to meet your goals include:
